PREFACE

The purpose of this publication is to provide educators and teachers with sources of related educational materials and aids which can be used to improve and strengthen instructional programs for visually handicapped children. It is not intended that this print-out supplant in any way the work done by abstractors at various Special Education Instructional Materials Centers and the CEC ERIC Information Center. It is rather an Interim measure prepared for teachers and educators who work directly with visually handicapped children.

Generally the publication contains listings of tactile aids and materials that have been specifically designed for the visually handicapped. Occasionally, items designed for sighted which have been used successfully with or appear to have significant implications for visually handicapped students are included.

An attempt was made to include only those items which have educational implications for students in various educational and vocational programs. Such aids as hypodermic needles and other medical and personal aids have not been included.

Aids are listed alphabetically in sections under categories. When feasible, SEIMC guidelines for abstracting and indexing instructional materials were considered in selecting these categories.

The print-out is not cross-referenced. If an aid does not appear in a particular category, check under related subjects for it. For example, some games with educational implications are listed under subject headings. The Braille Map game is listed under GEOGRAPHY. Calendars, clocks and watches appear under MATHEMATICS-TIME.

Subheads under categories are sometimes based on the number of items in a category. All aids for deaf-blind are included under DEAF-BLIND. Because of the large number of listings categorized under BRAILLE, additional subheads are used to aid in finding specific items. A number of aids specifically for young blind children have been listed under PRESCHOOL.

Prices included are those which were available when cards for the individual items were typed. These prices are subject to change and final costs should be checked with the manufacturers and suppliers.

A sample listing and an explanation of foreign currency symbols follow.

BRAILLE-WRITING SLATES

BARR SLATE

The slate consists of two metal plates. The bottom plate is provided with embossed projections which are grouped into braille cells. Each cell contains six embossed projections. The simplified slate consists of four rows of twenty-seven cells. There are four pins, one in each corner to hold the paper securely. The top plate of the slate is provided with guides indicating the positioning of the characters to be written in each cell. The two plates are hinged on one end. The stylus consists of a metal rod 1/16" in diameter, the end of which is hollowed out in a hemispherical shape complimenting the projections on the bottom plate. The stylus is used to press over the projections to form the embossed dots immediately on the front of the paper.

Teaches by combined audio/visual and kinesthetic exercises. Students see objects, words, or situations depicted on lesson cards and simultaneously hear the audio reinforcement. They can also record and compare their own responses, large letters, braille and three dimensional materials presented in conjunction with the appropriate audio. Allows the blind or partially sighted student to learn at his own best rate. This system is designed for use with EFI audio notebook system.
